

Classics remains at the traditional center of academia and involves a student in ancient language studies (Latin and Greek), literature and poetics, history, philosophy, political science, anthropology, archaeology, comparative linguistics and culture (to name just a few of the disciplines it has spawned).

The major in Classics with the Language Emphasis affords students the opportunity to study the classical languages (Greek and Latin) to an advanced level, while still exploring ancient Mediterranean culture in lecture courses. The major in Classics with the Humanities Emphasis allows students to explore various facets of the Mediterranean and Near Eastern civilization through focus upon the cultural products of the pre-Modern Mediterranean world.

What can you do with a Classics major?

Our majors enter a variety of fields that require advanced skills in critical thinking, analysis, language, and writing. Alumni are working in the fields of healthcare, education, business, law, nonprofit organizations, the Peace Corps, tourism, and other areas of endeavor.

Department of Classics and Humanities
San Diego State University
5500 Campanile Drive
San Diego, CA 92182-6064
619.594.5186
<http://classicsandhumanities.sdsu.edu>

Classics

Are you drawn to the mystery of decoding ancient texts? Awed by the sublime beauty of classical ruins strewn throughout the Mediterranean? You might have the makings of a classicist and not even know it. Study Classics and you'll discover why the love of the past can catapult you far into the future.

Talk with the Chair or Advisor Today!
619.594.5186

<http://classicsandhumanities.sdsu.edu>

What is your passion?

SDSU Classics and Humanities majors on study program in Greece
Summer 2010